

Town proclaims Terry Fox Day

Sunday, September 17 was proclaimed by Mayor Ed Buck as Terry Fox Day in Elk Point. Terry Fox Run co-organizer Denise Maas visited Council last Tuesday evening to witness the signing of the proclamation. Council also approved the use of the 10 kilometer route, which starts and ends at the Elk Point Recreation Park, for the afternoon fundraising run.

Council once again had new legislation on their agenda, as they gave all three readings to three bylaws, the first establishing a Subdivision Appeal Board, the second establishing a Subdivision Authority and the third setting a Subdivision Fee Schedule.

One tender was received for purchase of the Town truck which was recently replaced, but Council felt it was too low and decided to re-advertise for tenders. They also turned down a request to have 1995 land taxes waived on a parcel of industrial land.

Administrator Curt Svendsen reported that only 89 percent of taxes were paid prior to the adding of penalties on September 1, down from the usual 94 to 95 percent.

Problems with weeds and dogs still are cropping up. The weed inspector has paid a visit to Elk Point and will be writing up orders to property owners to remove the offending plants. It was noted that the animal control person is on call and can be notified if dogs are at large or barking in the middle of the night.

Election day is coming up October 16, and nomination day is next Monday, September 18.

Buck's civic duty stops here

Elk Point Mayor Ed Buck feels he has done his part for the community, and will not be submitting nomination papers for the upcoming Municipal General Election on October 16.

Buck says "I think it's time [to leave Council]. I've been involved long enough, I've done my civic duty." He cautioned prospective mayoralty candidates that he hoped "whoever runs has time to do justice to the position."

The mayor is proud of the fact that he did not raise municipal taxes during his nearly completed three year term, and says he has enjoyed working with the current council.

Elk Point's next mayor will find that the job involves "more and more promotion" of the community, "if Elk Point is to survive," Buck said.

He also said he does not plan to seek re-election to the School Board.

TERRY FOX DAY PROCLAIMED - Mayor Ed Buck has proclaimed Sunday, September 17 as Terry Fox Day in Elk Point. Denise Maas, one of the organizers of the Terry Fox Run for cancer research, was present for the signing.

Chamber gets ready for a busy fall season

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce held their first meeting September 6 after a two month summer break, and set plans in motion for a busy fall season.

The Chamber agreed to take part in the 11th Annual Information Night, which is sponsored by FCSS and held in the Elks Hall, and will also be on hand at the F. G. Miller High School Awards Night to present the customary award.

Election for a new mayor and council is scheduled for October 16, and the Chamber discussed hosting a candidates' forum at which the voters could hear from those who seek to direct the town's operation for the next three years.

Small Business Week is coming up in October, and the Chamber will once again be looking for a deserving Small Businessperson of the Year to honor. A plaque will be presented by Canada Post Corporation to the winner. It's not too early to start thinking about whom you would like to nominate for this award.

The Retail Merchants Committee is already looking ahead to the festive season, and will hold their first Christmas Extravaganza planning meeting later this month. All businesses are welcome to get involved in the planning for this always-popular event, so watch for further details and meeting dates.

Looking back at the summer, the Chamber heard a report on the Canada Day Pancake Breakfast, which served approximately 750 people again this year. Costs of putting on the breakfast were up from 1994, due to several large contributions of materials toward last year's breakfast, but about the same amount of donations were taken in, which covered all but $244.77 of the cost.

The Tourist Booth report for the year was also given, and shows a drop of 36 percent from last year's figures. Only 743 tourists, as compared to 1141 last year and 1009 in 1993, signed in this year. One reason for the drop was the decrease in days of operation from 7 to 5 days per week. This year the Chamber had only one grant position, while the previous year they shared another position to cover the remaining two days of the week. Tourist Information Officer Sherry Pelech had noted in her year-end statistics that there was an increase in the percentage of registrants from the local area from 20 percent in 1994 to 26.5 percent this year. American visitors this year were from Montana, Idaho, California and New York, while the only off-shore visitors noted were from Italy.

Elk Point hosts 8th Annual Summer Horse Show

By Charlene Baker

EPAS Fairgrounds and Livestock Committee

On Saturday, August 26, the Elk Point Agricultural Society Fairgrounds and Livestock Division 8th Annual Horse Show was well attended by over 65 entries. The day started off with good weather but proceeded to get very wet and cold. Fortunately, the Fairgrounds Arena is very spacious and dry, and the show carried on.

This year's Senior High Point winner was Joyce Larson riding Tivio, runner up was Charlene Baker on Serene Liberty Lee. The Senior High Point blanket award was sponsored by Bailey's Western Wear of St. Paul. In the Youth category, Shanna Baker took High Point riding Serene Liberty Lee and Leslie Roth on Definitely Bear was runner up. The Youth High Point blanket was sponsored by Cobra Energy Consultants of Elk Point. In the Juniors' Lana Graham riding Rafferty Raffene won the blanket sponsored by Tall Horse Saddlery of Edmonton and runner up was Ashley Larson on Tivio. the blankets were especially designed and made by the Horseman's Hideout in Edmonton.

What's new at Playschool

By Diane Pashulka
Playschool instructor

Hi there! Once again we are back at school and this year is going to be even better than last. I am looking forward to seeing those little faces once again, some new, some familiar, and all welcome.

Getting back to school has been exciting. I've done some rearranging in our room and started decorating for fall time. Winter may be approaching fast, but our beautiful skylight lets the sun shine through.

Our year promises to be full of fun and excitement. Over the summer I've learned some great songs and games and I've discovered wonderful new crafts. I am going to be planning some field trips around town to the parks, hospital and maybe even the ice cream parlor.

We are going to start the year off with a bang. The program is set up in monthly themes. The theme for September is 'GOING TO SCHOOL.' For the first couple of days we will get to know each other and learn about our school. We will familiarize ourselves with the school, the playground and our own classroom. We will be digging our hands right in, literally, by getting into cornstarch finger-painting within the first week. REMEMBER, parents, playschool is fun and having fun means getting messy so pull out the old clothes.

Thanksgiving and Halloween will be the "haunts" for October. Witches, black cats and even a few turkeys show up around this time and we have 'dreadful' good fun.

Playschool offers children and their families an environment where social skills are enhanced. New friends and acquaintances are easily made. Our philosophy for the program is "LEARNING THROUGH PLAY." Children at this age learn best through their environment and experiences they encounter. They learn through exploring their world. Playschool benefits everyone, parents and children alike. Hope to see you soon. For more information, call 724-2400.

FCSS News

Information Night is coming September 19

FCSS is hosting Information Night on Tuesday, September 19 between 7:00 and 9:00 p.m. at the Elks Hall. Information Night is an opportunity for residents to become aware of what is available to them right in their own community in terms of services, clubs, recreation, education and so forth. The evening can be especially valuable to newcomers in the community because so many of the non-profit groups and agencies are showcased together under one roof at one time.

But you don't have to be new to the community to appreciate what is available. Every year brings new exhibits and special attractions. This year will feature a dynamic display by Alberta Power, special features from Further Education, Crackers the Clown and her balloon animals, and more!

Some groups use the event as an opportunity to take registrations for the coming season. Many exhibitors also have draws for great prizes. Be sure to come out with your family and friends to the 11th Annual Information Night. See you there! For more information call FCSS at 724-3800.

ALZHEIMER SUPPORT GROUP

The Alzheimer Support Group will meet on Wednesday, September 20 from 1:30 to 3:00 p.m. in the Extendicare Conference Room, 4614 - 47 Ave., St. Paul. Refreshments will be served and there will also be discussions and videos. For more information, call Normande Tannas at 645-3375.

NEWCOMERS WELCOMED TO ELK POINT

It's been a busy summer with people moving to and from Elk Point. A special welcome to the following families that have recently moved to Elk Point: Arun and Bea Chakavarty - new owners of the Elk Point Hotel from Edmonton, Dale Campbell who is working for the Elk Point Ambulance and his son Zacharis from Edmonton, the Lee Culford family who previously resided in Marwayne and Lloydminster, Bernice Bykowsky from Derwent, the Don Nelson family from Grand Prairie, Larry and Alice Paanaanen from Red Deer, the Doug Rutherford family from British Columbia and Lyle and Hazel Howe who previously resided in Cold Lake and Edmonton. We hope you will enjoy the facilities, hospitality, services and friendships that the Elk Point community can offer. Please help welcome these families when you see them!

COMMUNITY DIRECTORY UPDATE

FCSS is in the process of updating our Community Contact List and Community and Volunteer Directories. If your organization has had changes in meeting times and places or has elected a new executive, please contact FCSS at 724-3800 and inform us of any changes. With your help we can keep these documents both current and useful.

FAMILY AND SOCIAL NEEDS SURVEY RESULTS NOW AVAILABLE

The purpose of the Family and Social Needs Survey was to:

- * Assess the individual and collective needs of our community;
- * Obtain direction for FCSS, and
- * To further the FCSS philosophy of working together.

A summary of the survey has been completed. Information that is of interest to other agencies will be forwarded to them. Identified social needs that fall under the Town's responsibility will be prioritized by the FCSS

Board, based on demonstrated need and cost.

Special thanks to the FCSS Board for their support of this project and to the community for taking the time to assist us in assessing the social needs of our community. Copies of the survey are available on request.

Child abuse in normal parents

By Dr. Arnold Rincover

Child Behavioral Psychologist

Bruises and broken bones are the most obvious signs of child abuse, but other types of child abuse do not leave physical scars. Child abuse is a matter of degree: the degree to which a parent uses inappropriate or excessive control strategies with a child and/or fails to provide standards of care giving. Abusive behavior can result from good caring people who are under chronic stress.

Parents who constantly scold their children, call them denigrating names and make them feel unwanted or unworthy are perhaps the most serious child abusers. This form of abuse is generally accompanied by a much broader problem of poor parenting skills. Physical violence is no longer thought to be the only form of abuse or even the major problem for the abused child. Neglect is also a common form of child abuse.

Leaving young children to get up for school on their own, bathe, dress and feed themselves is a form of neglect and it is this lack of attention, direction and support for the child that is considered abusive. The absence of a balance between reward and punishment and the fact that these parents stop functioning as facilitators and teachers is of much greater concern than a single violent act.

Who are these abusive parents? Research shows that it is not a simple "us" good parents versus "them" bad parents. These parents do not normally possess any personality disorder or inbred maliciousness. Rather, it is usually a parent who is under extreme stress related to work, marital problems or finances who strikes out at a child.

In fact, abusive parents often do not know they are abusive. Our culture has, for generations, used corporal punishment as a means of controlling child behavior. Some parents think society places no restraint on such techniques. Many may recall the old saying, "spare the rod and spoil the child." It is not always clear what the limits are in efforts to get a child to behave.

The characteristics of abusive parenting include a lack of praise and a lack of affection or comfort for the child. In turn, the abusive child characteristically displays many behavioral and emotional problems such as a lack of empathy, problem-solving and coping skills. As the abused child matures, they are often uncooperative with authority figures such as teachers, police and parents. They often are abusive toward their own children and the cycle of abuse continues.

Parents can help prevent abuse if they monitor their own behavior by checking to see the effect stress has on them. If you see you are losing patience easily and that it is interfering with proper supervision of your child or children, you should search out professional help and counselling. Parenting abilities can be seriously challenged by personal stress-related problems. Professional assistance from psychologists and other trained counsellors could prevent child abuse.

Remember, child abuse is not restricted to violent behavior and the long term effects of child abuse and poor parenting can last a lifetime.

Volunteers hit the streets to raise funds for Red Cross

With the need for its services greater than ever, the Red Cross is launching a fundraising campaign in Alberta communities this fall. Volunteer canvassers will go door-to-door, inviting Albertans to help Red Cross provide life-saving and humanitarian aid.

The financial support of generous Albertans will help to provide programs such as emergency assistance to those who have lost their homes due to fire, floods or other disasters. In the last year, the Red Cross assisted some 800 people in Alberta. That's a statistic which doesn't include those assisted by the Red Cross during the massive flooding which occurred in Medicine Hat in June when 5,000 people were affected. Other programs supported by the fundraising drive include:

- disaster preparedness training
- water safety lessons
- first aid and CPR courses
- child abuse prevention programs, and
- the loan of sickroom equipment to those unable to afford to buy it.

"All of the funds raised through the door-to-door campaigns stay in Alberta to help Albertans," stressed Kimberley Duns, coordinator of community campaigns.

Volunteers in 156 communities are participating in the fall fundraising campaign. The Red Cross hopes to raise approximately $190,000.

Fort des Prairies Jamboree a huge success

Musicians, dancers and poets from a wide area converged on Fort George - Buckingham House Historic Site Sunday for their first ever Fort des Prairies Jamboree. The Jamboree was the only major event to be held at the site this year, and provided a joyous ending to the season.

Well in excess of a hundred people enjoyed the beautiful weather and good entertainment, which included local musicians Babe Sharkey, Doreen Younghans, Henry Botting and Andrew Pearson as well as those from neighboring communities and as far away as Wetaskiwin. Dancers Peggy Fidler-Zaraska, Muriel Bilodeau and Orville Swedgan showed their prowess at the Red River Jig, while Nora Wyman, John Drobot, Roy Scott and Vicki Brooker added some cowboy poetry.

Drobot also brought along his miniature horses and provided wagon rides for the youngsters, and Randy Chappel of the Fort Edmonton Brigade demonstrated the art of lighting a fire with flint and steel.

Site Director Karen Doyle thanked the Friends of the Forts for their part in organizing the afternoon, and for the work they have done throughout the season. The Friends also donated a number of door prizes for draws which completed the afternoon's agenda.

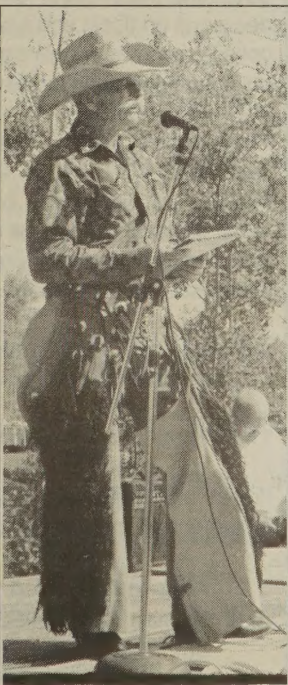

There was also time for tours of the Interpretive Centre and a final look at the picturesque river scenery as the Centre prepared to close its doors until next May.

HORSE AND BUGGY DAY - is enjoyed by a large number of youngsters who tried out the pioneer style transportation provided by John Drobot and his tiny team.

DOWN HOME COUNTRY MUSIC was the order of the day. Babe Sharkey (left), Henry Botting and Doreen Younghans started off the program with some old favorites.

OLD JAKE from Stoney Lake related the history of the area and told several tales of ranch life in his humorous homespun poetry.

NORA WYMAN - is new to the cowboy poetry scene, and offered several entertaining numbers, with wagon train adventures and the North Saskatchewan River as two of her subjects.

FCSS News - coping with change - an overview

COPING WITH CHANGE

No doubt we are living in changing times. In fact, the rapidity of change is staggering. There was a time when we could gradually adjust to the demands that we faced. However, research suggests that as we move into the 1990s the amount of change and the amount of information will be doubling on the average of every three to five years. In fact, in some fields the amount of knowledge and information is doubling as quickly as every 18 months. As we approach the millennium researchers feel the doubling of information and change will be measured in days.

We can no longer predict our future based on our past experiences. A few ideas to be considered:

* We are going to a global village, the world is shrinking in a number of ways. Information is far more accessible from all parts of the world. Technologies such as computer and fax are allowing information to be available immediately.

* We are living longer, through the wonders of medical technology diseases which years ago would have been considered terminal are being reversed. As we move into the 1990s the quality of life is being considered an important issue. In North America we have an aging population. Some research suggests that for every three people turning 65 there will be one turning 18. Middle age will be "55" and in vogue. Wellness is an issue we must all address.

* Due to the increasing knowledge base, we must become perpetual students, no longer will we be able to consider our education "finished." Our children will almost certainly face a multitude of career and educational changes in their lifetime. Our educational systems will be changed dramatically. Teaching as we know it today will be transformed.

* The There will be a shift in our thinking from "me" to "we." In order for people to survive we must learn to manage our interdependencies. Working together as a unit will allow everyone to have a sense of purpose and commitment.

* Environmental issues will become a burning concern in order to ensure our survival. Organizations will be judged on how they respond and treat these environmental issues.

This week we have looked at an overview of change; next week we'll discuss mastering change.

SENIORS STORIES NEEDED

Take part in an exciting new project. In recognition of the valuable role played by seniors and the incredible wealth of stories and anecdotes told by early residents, the St. Paul Journal and the Town and County FCSS offices are spearheading a book project to coincide with the 1996 Alberta Seniors' Games.

The project will involve planning and conduction conversations with area seniors, to collect and publish their funniest and most touching stories.

Unlike historical book projects, which involve broader histories, this will focus on simple vignettes — brief tales which bring to life the color and texture of our pioneer past.

As the works are compiled, they will be published regularly in the St. Paul Journal, in a new and specially designated section.

For more information, contact: Rob (645-3342); Linnette (645-1950) or Cheryl (645-5076).

PUBLIC MEMBERS

LAKELAND COLLEGE BOARD OF GOVERNORS

Jack W. Ady, the Minister of Advanced Education and Career Development, is seeking applications from Albertans interested in serving as public members of the Lakeland College Board of Governors. Lakeland College is an interprovincial institution serving northeastern Alberta and northwestern Saskatchewan, with corporate offices located in Vermilion. Further information can be obtained by calling Board of Governors Chairman, Leonard Fundytus, at 853-8513 or President, Steve Pawlak at 853-8510.

There are currently three vacancies in the public membership. A public member shares with the Chair and other members of the board the responsibilities of: governing the college; formulating policies enabling the board to make responsible decisions on fiscal and academic matters; establishing the purpose and vision of the college; and has a commitment to the academic, financial and social well-being of the college and to adult learning generally.

To be eligible, you must be a Canadian citizen or permanent resident of Canada, and a resident of Alberta. In addition, you should have a demonstrated interest in the college; an awareness of issues affecting education and training of adults; an understanding of financial matters; interpersonal abilities to deal effectively with other board members and a variety of interest groups; good communication skills; and demonstrated community service.

Appointment: A public member is appointed for a term of up to three years and may be reappointed for one further term of three years.

There is no salary available with this position.

If you are interested in this unique opportunity, please forward a resume or a statement of your related qualifications to:

Board declines interschool bussing requests

The St. Paul Education Regional Division was forced to decline a "substantial" number of requests from parents who wanted their children bussed to schools distant from their homes, superintendent Ted Cabaj said this week.

"While funding now follows children to the school of their parents' choice, school divisions are not responsible for bussing students to facilities that are outside their transportation areas," he said.

"We just can't afford that kind of double bussing. It doesn't make sense."

This year, the board received "about a dozen" such requests, including numerous pleas to have children bussed from rural locations to the St. Paul Regional High School.

The board denied all requests — a measure Cabaj said was unfortunate but necessary.

"The trustees walk a very tenuous tightrope if they ever grant an exception to the policy," he said.

"As parents, it can be difficult to see the concerns and implications of such a measure for the whole system. Every exception sets a precedent, which carries on into the future."

The question of bussing boundaries, Cabaj added, is likely to linger as a problem for rural boards for some time. But the influx of requests for exceptions is likely almost over this year.

"Our transportation system is already in operation and our decisions are already made. We're living with those decisions."

School enrollments cause concern

By Rob Desjardins

St. Paul Journal Staff Writer

The St. Paul Education Regional Division is keeping a close eye on the enrollment lists at its 15 schools.

In a brief prepared after the division's meeting last Tuesday, superintendent Ted Cabaj noted that "some schools' enrollments are above budget projection assumptions while some schools are significantly under assumptions."

If those trends continue until the end of the month, he wrote, government funding, which is now offered on a per-student basis, won't be as high as expected. "This may result in corrective measures being implemented."

Speaking to the Journal on Friday, Cabaj said it is still too early to tell whether any schools will fall short of anticipated enrollments.

"By the 15th, we should have a reasonable idea of where the enrollments will be at the month's end, which is when the final numbers come in," he said.

"The registrations at some of the schools have increased considerably since Tuesday, so it's difficult to tell."

In the event that some schools do lag behind expectations, however, the board's "corrective measures" may directly affect staff members — in transfers or even cuts.

"We have to find the money somewhere (to run the schools cost-effectively)," he said. "According to the new policy, boards aren't allowed to carry a deficit over more than one year. If we were to go into the 1996-97 year with a deficit, we would have to cut more to make up the deficit and realign the programs."

Despite that possibility, Cabaj says he's still "optimistic" that major changes throughout the division won't be necessary.

"Based on past experience with the County schools, we've seen that a number of students tend to register late. It's a typical phenomenon."

Community Calendar

Here are a few of the upcoming events in Elk Point and area during the coming weeks:

Please call in events to be listed in the community calendar by Thursday at 5:00 p.m. for inclusion in the next week's issue. This calendar is intended for special events, not for regular meetings.

Vehicle Information Report

By Paul Langevin

MLA, St. Paul - Lac La Biche

The Alberta government has introduced a new product that will help buyers of previously owned vehicles to make better-informed decisions. As I am sure most Albertans have experienced, the task of buying a previously owned vehicle can be difficult, especially when the history of the vehicle is not known. Registry agents throughout Alberta have a new information product for buyers and sellers of previously owned vehicles: The Vehicle Information Report. The one-page summary provides information from Alberta Registries' records on vehicles registered in Alberta.

The Vehicle Information Report is based on information available at the date and time it is produced. It will confirm if the vehicle is registered in Alberta, and if so, the report will provide a description of the vehicle and its registration history.

The status of the vehicle, such as if it has been reported as written-off to Alberta Registries, declared salvage or is unsafe, will also be provided. The latest licence plate classification (e.g., passenger, commercial, farm, rental, etc.) and the number of current liens, if any, registered in Alberta against the vehicle will also be included in the report.

Not only is the Vehicle Information Report useful for potential buyers but it is an excellent addition to an information sales package for sellers of previously owned vehicles.

The Vehicle Information Report is available from over 220 registry agents in Alberta. Information is available from December 1993 onward. Anyone interested in obtaining a report should provide the Vehicle Identification Number (serial number) to the registry agent. The number is used to search Alberta Registries' record (Motor Vehicles System and Personal Property Registry databases).

Caution to Genealogists

The Better Business Bureau has been receiving inquiries on Burke's Peerage, a Toronto company, offering area consumers a book of detailed family history for a total of $38.93. "The World Book of..." is stated to be a unique publication for the family.

"The books contain very general information on the family name and not specific information on the family tree," states P. Ross Bradford, President of the Better Business Bureau.

"The majority of the book is similar to a telephone directory with all the known persons with the family name listed," says Mr. Bradford. Company literature states they have spent a great deal of effort and thousands of dollars locating almost every household in the world. The company has stated to the Bureau that this information comes from public records. The company does not claim to trace individual family lineage or trees.

Consumers wishing to trace their family trees should seek the services of a genealogist or a genealogical organization.

Community Celebration planned

The Elk Point Congregational Community Church is celebrating its affiliation with the Congregational Churches of Canada.

This is a big event in the life of this local congregation and they want to share it with the whole of Elk Point community. The church is hosting a continental breakfast on Sunday, September 17 at 9:00 a.m. This is open to all residents of the community and there is no charge.

Everyone is welcome to join the congregation in celebrating this exciting event.

Elk Point Christian Community Church receives accreditation

On August 20, 1995 the Elk Point Christian Community Church was recognized as a member church in good standing and in full fellowship with the Congregational Christian Churches in Canada. The presentation was made at their regular morning worship service by Mr. Len Ryder, Prairie Region Director for the Congregational Christian Churches in Canada and was greatly accepted by Jerome Keichinger on behalf of the congregation. Presentation was also made to Rev. Sam Donaldson recognizing that he has received credentials standing into Ministerial Ordained Membership and is in good standing and in full fellowship in the Congregational Christian Churches in Canada which he accepted with much pleasure. The congregation of the Elk Point Christian Community Church take great pride in this accomplishment as our goal that has been reached with the guidance of God and the belief in Him and in ourselves.

MINISTER IN GOOD STANDING - Rev. Sam Donaldson is presented with a certificate of credentials stating he is an ordained minister in good standing with the Congregational Churches of Canada. Len Ryder made the presentation.

The treasure of Grandparents

By Rev. Sam Donaldson

Elk Point Christian Community Church

Last Sunday, in the Elk Point Congregational Community Church, we celebrated Grandparents Day. We had a ministry geared to that topic with the sharing of a cake at the coffee fellowship at the end of the service.

Grandparents are a special treasure to the grandchildren. Even if we are adults we regard the grandparents as very special people. They are a link with the past. They are great teachers of values and spiritual truths.

I remember how, as a child, I liked to sit close to my grandpa Donaldson and listen to his stories about tiems and events long past.

I remember by grandma McKenley kneeling by the fireside chair and have her prayer time each morning.

The Apostle Paul reminded Timothy about his godly grandmother Lois. The treasure that Timothy inherited from his grandmother was a christian faith.

A special tribute to all the grandparents who have fast on a spiritual inheritance to their grandchildren. We thank god for that treasure of faith and kin.

What's News at the Library?

Library Needs Assessment survey gets underway

By Michele Ducek
Librarian

The Elk Point Public Library Needs Assessment Survey is underway, so visitors to the library should be prepared to be asked to participate. We will also be taking the survey on the road to get the input of those who don't come to the library. The survey takes only a few moments to fill out and your input will help us to plan the direction the library will take in the future.

Some more books in our juvenile series have arrived:

Jessica and Elizabeth are the objects of a convicted killer's revenge while on an island vacation in A Killer On Board from Sweet Valley High.

Jessica's cookies are so good she has been invited on national television but she can't remember the secret ingredient that made her cookies so amazing in Jessica's Cookie Disaster from Sweet Valley Twins.

Dawn decides to return to California to live permanently but she doesn't know how to tell Mary Anne, her stepsister and best friend, that she is leaving forever in Farewell, Dawn from The Baby-Sitters Club.

Karen's new business enterprise is interfering with her softball in Karen's Lemonade Stand from Baby-Sitters Little Sister.

The girls visit the wild ponies of Chincoteague and Assateague islands in Flying Horse from The Saddle Club.

Someone is trying to ruin the hot air balloon rally and only the Boxcar Children can solve the mystery in time in The Mystery of the Hot Air Balloon from the Boxcar Children.

Something funny is going on at the carnival funhouse in The Berenstain Bears in the Freaky Funhouse, a chapter book from Stan and Jan Berenstain.

Toad and his friends go out to a restaurant to celebrate his birthday in Toad Eats Out by Susan Schade and John Buller, Step into Reading book.

Another juvenile title is Amber Brown is Not a Crayon by Paula Danziger. When Amber's best friend, Justin, learns that he is moving away, things change between the two.

LIBRARY CALENDAR

Friday mornings, 10:30 a.m. - Storytime. Stories, crafts, songs and more.

Tuesday, September 19 - The library will have a display booth at the annual Information Night. Stop by and see us.

Further Ed news

Elk Point Further Education is getting the new season underway. The course calendars are out and there are a number of exciting courses to choose from.

Make sure to stop at the Further Ed table at Information Night and see some samples of the crafts, and check out further details on the other courses.

Subjects range from aerobics, CPR, dog obedience and computers to Christmas crafts, folk art, quilting and silk ribbon embroidery - something for almost every interest.

A number of courses are also scheduled for the Heinsburg area.

Calling all quilters! Join the Quilting Club at Further Ed on Wednesdays between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., beginning September 13. The quilts made will be donated to various organizations. No quilting experience necessary.

Dog Obedience starts September 21 and goes for 9 Thursdays. The first night is for the owners ONLY - dogs stay at home! If you require a training lead and collar, the instructor will have these for sale the first night. Dogs must have their vaccinations up to date. For more information or to register, call 724-4101.

Extra Special Thank You

To my friends, neighbours and relations for your concern, visits and understanding during my convalescence and loss of my husband Nick. For all of you today, I hold more appreciation than words can ever say. For you are the nicest kind of people and you'll never be forgotten.

For the thoughtfulness you have shown, I am most grateful for your support.

Thank you again,
Mary Bochon

A very special thank you goes out to Hughie Krucik, the show secretary, who kept everything in order, our announcer Glen Harms, for keeping the show running smoothly, and Brian Schnurer, our gate steward who kept track of all classes and competitors. Thanks also to Norma Lorensen and Wendy Young for the concession, Diane Babcock as our ring steward, Shauna Campbell for helping out and of course to our judge, Cecil Ennis of Dewberry for an excellent job. Out show would not be possible if not for our local sponsors and businesses that keep supporting us every year. A huge thank you to E-Can Oilfield Services and Shamrock Valley Enterprises for supporting our judge and ribbons, along with Elk Point Insurance, Lakeland Security, Lakeland Realty, and Heavy Crude. Placings and ribbons were awarded to 6th place. Prize money was allotted with $20 for first, $15 for second, $10 for third and $5 for fourth place.
